Remains related to alleged serial killer, police say

► Man charged in June 2010 with three counts of first-degree murder

Ottawa police announced Thursday afternoon their searches for buried human remains in the Heatherington Park area are connected with accused serial killer Camille Cleroux.

"The search is another productive step with respect to the ongoing Ottawa Police investigation concerning Camille Cleroux, 57," a police press release said.

Media had already reported Cleroux lived 20 years ago in the townhouse at 1535 Heatherington Rd., where a construction crew unearthed human remains on Oct. 31 of this year. A second search for remains began Wednesday morning in Heatherington Park and was completed Thursday.

In June 2010, Cleroux was charged with three counts of first-degree murder in the death of Paula Leclair and the disappearances of Lise Roy and Jean Rock.

The preliminary inquiry into his charges were adjourned after the discovery of the human remains on Halloween.

Poodle stabber gets three months in slammer

An Ottawa woman who stabbed her boyfriend's five-year-old poodle to death was handed a three month jail sentence after her guilty plea Oct. 28.

In a news release, the Ottawa Humane Society said it applauded the jail sentence for Abir Hamade.

Hamade pleaded guilty to two counts of animal cruelty, including unlawfully killing an animal and causing an animal unnecessary pain and suffering.

In addition to the jail time, Hamade was prohibited from owning, caring for or living in a home with any animals for 12 years.

The charges were laid Jan. 20, 2009, but Hamade could not be located and a bench warrant for her arrest was issued before her trial.

"It's gratifying to see the court issue a sentence of jail time in a case like this where there has been a vicious attack on a defenceless animal," said OHS Inspector, Miriam Smith in the release.

The Humane Society is legally mandated to enforce the animal cruelty provisions of the Criminal Code of Canada and the Ontario SPCA Act, but receives no government funding or funding from any animal welfare group. ● METRO

Ottawa Occupiers march with direction

► Rallies in Ottawa part of the Global Day of Action that saw protests in other cities, including an Occupy Wall Street march in New York

JESSICA SMITH
@METRONEWS.CA

Ottawa's Occupiers shouted "We have direction" as they gathered at Confederation Park Thursday before marching to four simultaneous rallies to mark the movement's Global Day of Action.

"We want to recognize that no longer will we allow the Occupy movement to be considered by the media to be directionless. We have direction. We have issues. We have important things to discuss. Let that discussion begin," shouted Arun Smith, as the protesters used the "people's mic" shouting each phrase back.

The organizers of the march chose four destinations — each representing the movement's goals — to march to before heading to Parliament Hill.

Occupiers protested on Sparks Street in front of banks because of their movement's anti-capitalist and anti-oppression goals, organizers said.

Others went to the Human Rights Monument to express the movement's positive messages about the rights of women, LGBTQ people and "oppressed people everywhere."

A contingent marched to the Novotel hotel to support an Ottawa District and Labour Council protest about alleged resistance to efforts by workers to unionize.

A march to the U.S. Embassy was to recognize the first protest of the movement, Occupy Wall Street, and its values.

"Capitalism is a problem, imperialism is a problem, all sorts of different forms of oppression are problems, and the colonialism on which this country and the U.S. are maintained is a problem," shouted Smith.

Things are getting better

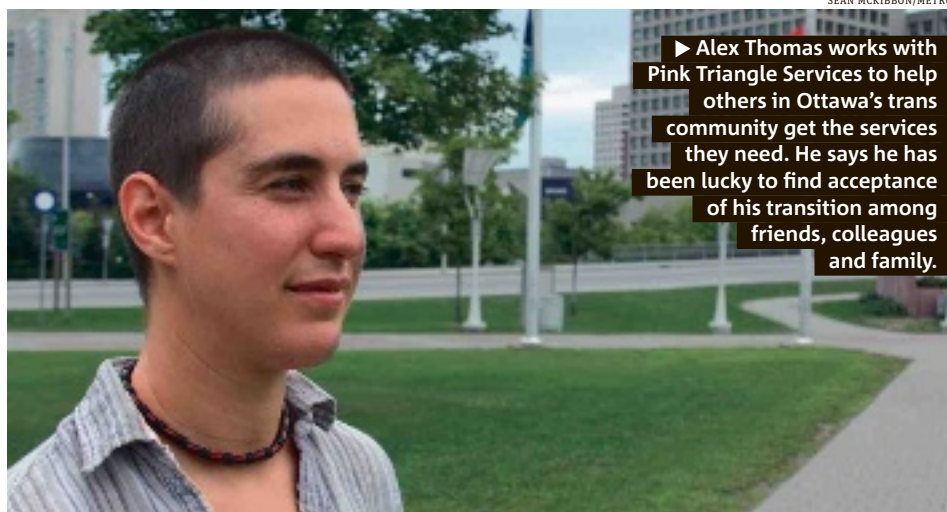

► Ottawa's trans community is set to mark the Trans Day of Remembrance, Nov. 20, and the violence suffered by people who challenge their birth gender ► Metro interviewed two community members about living outside labels

SEAN MCKIBBON/METRO

► Alex Thomas works with Pink Triangle Services to help others in Ottawa's trans community get the services they need. He says he has been lucky to find acceptance of his transition among friends, colleagues and family.

SEAN MCKIBBON
@METRONEWS.CA

The contrast in experience between generations could not be more different.

When trans activist Joanne Law decided in 1987 that she must live life as a woman, she had to walk away from her marriage, and then her employer fired her.

When Alex Thomas transitioned, his friends and colleagues in the Canadian Reserves were supportive. Thomas kept his job as a radio-communications technician.

"I sued my employer and I lost," Law says. "Back then you were a guy. Even women going into the trades are harassed. I loved my job. It was the best job I ever had."

Law was a building systems technician. Changing her gender led to poverty and having to go on social assistance. Even today, she says, many trans people fear coming out of the closet because of the potential for job loss.

There is no protection for trans people under Canadian human rights law. An attempt this year to add protections to human-rights legislation passed third reading in the House of Commons, but died on the order paper when the federal election was called.

"But things are changing, things are getting better," says Law, who noted that in a recent presentation she made at a school, she met one student who talked about a friend who was transitioning genders and was quite open about it.

Thomas says he got help transitioning through medical professionals in the military who found him the experts he needed.

"I happen to be very lucky my social community has always been very accepting of most things. I didn't have as much to worry that if I did transition I wasn't about to lose all of my friends and my family," he says.

Law says when she transitioned it was difficult to know where to turn for help. Her mother accepted her, but one of her brothers didn't.

While all trans people face struggles for acceptance, both Law and Thomas say they have rich lives beyond the labels people apply to them.

"I'm not an activist 100 per cent of the time," Law says. "I go out with my friends and have a beer and do normal stuff."

Thomas is a member of a medieval club. He has a daughter and enjoys working with computers and technology.

"I have a very multifaceted life," he says.

But the trans community is still facing discrimination

As Ottawa's trans community marks the Trans Day of Remembrance this weekend, there is a tension between wanting to celebrate the achievements of the community in building acceptance among the rest of society and highlighting the fact that oppression and discrimination are still big problems.

"This year we put together a number of events to commemorate those lost to transphobic violence," said Claudia Van den Heuvel, executive director of Pink Triangle Services.

"We don't want to lose sight of the historical context of TDOR," she said, explaining the event started as a commemoration of Rita Hesler, a trans woman who was murdered in the U.S.

Van den Heuvel said

trans people are disproportionately impoverished and are victims of violence and discrimination compared to the rest of the population.

Discrimination against trans people in employment and housing is rampant, she said. At the same time, Ottawa is diverse and many trans people who live here have good jobs and do not experience the same level of discrimination and stigma as in other parts of the country.

While Van den Heuvel was not aware of any trans homicides in Ottawa, she said trans people typically experience oppression in the form of verbal abuse, and "mislabelling, de-gendering, isolation and segregation."

'This is a symbolic day'

► Ottawa believed to be first N.A. city to proclaim Youth Homelessness Awareness Day ► Around 65,000 Canadian youth are homeless: Bureau

JOE LOFARO
@METRONEWS.CA

To some, Mayor Jim Watson's proclamation of Nov. 17 as Youth Homelessness Awareness Day Thursday may seem purely symbolic, but a former homeless youth said Thursday it really will help get kids off the streets.

"It will make kids realize that Youth Services Bureau (YSB) will be there for them anytime to support them if they go for help," said Abby, an 18-year-old Canterbury High School student, who didn't want his last name published. "This is a really symbolic day."

Before he studied dance at the school, he had no home and often slept on Rideau Street at night. Then he walked through the YSB's doors and got the help he needed, which brought him to where he is today.

YSB is a non-profit organization that provides about 1,500 youth every year with emergency shelter, housing, and food.

Abby believes the official proclamation will give the homeless youth the push that they need to get help.

"It will give them motivation to go into (YSB) for help," said Abby.

He and Raphaelle Ferland both shared their experiences of living on Ottawa streets with guests at the press conference at the Lunenburg Pub on Waller Street.

Mayor Jim Watson made the official proclamation Thursday at the request of the YSB, which also launched their annual Raise the Roof campaign for long-term solutions for homelessness.

Group blasts hotel over union battle

The Ottawa and District Labour Council rallied outside the Novotel hotel on Nicholas Street Thursday to protest management's treatment of employees who want a union.

The council's president Sean McKenny said four Novotel employees have been fired within the last several months and that management is disciplining those who are keeping the union chatter going.

Jeff Segat, a former Novotel chef, said he was fired two years after he raised the issue of starting a union. He attended the rally in support of the workers who are still working and those allegedly fired.

"We had a staff meeting and I defended the union, and shortly afterwards I was fired," said Segat. "I was called in to work one day and they fired me without cause."

Segat said management

"This is about sending a message to management that it's (workers') legal right to talk about a union and it's illegal to fire workers as a result of that." SEAN MCKENNY told him he was fired because he was "unhappy."

Hospitality & Service Trades Union is trying to represent workers at Novotel Hotels in Ottawa, Mississauga and North York.

Novotel Canada released a statement stating that the company respects their workers' rights to make their own choices regarding union representation in the workplace. ● JOE LOFARO

Activists, cops clash

► Occupy Wall Street demonstrators march through heart of financial district on day of protest ► 175 people arrested

Hundreds of Occupy demonstrators marched through New York's financial district Thursday in an attempt to block traders from reaching the New York Stock Exchange, promising a national day of action with mass gatherings in other cities.

The action came two days after authorities cleared their encampment that sparked the global protest movement against economic inequality and greed.

Frustrations seemed to spill over in the park at the centre of the protest as hundreds of people shoved back the metal police barricades that have long surrounded the area. A live television shot from above showed waves of police and protesters briefly pushing back and forth before the barricades appeared to be settled at the edge of the park once more.

"All day, all week, shut down Wall Street!" the crowd chanted, clogging the streets as they neared the stock exchange.

Police said at least 175 people were arrested, including several who sat on the ground one block from Wall Street and refusing to move. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arctic dwellers at risk

► Polar bears are the ultimate symbol of climate change ► The animals are a step away from being classified as endangered ► Why saving the bears means saving the planet ...

Bearly

ELISHA DACEY
@METRONEWS.CA

If there's any animal on Earth that could inspire people to engage in preventing man-made climate change, the polar bear is it.

Majestic, powerful and deadly, the cuddly-looking bears are under direct threat from a warming planet, and they're already showing the symptoms.

"What you'll find in the short term is that polar bears will have to turn to other (foods)," said Dr. Pete Ewing, a marine scientist with the World Wildlife Fund (WWF). Last week, for example, scientists came across a group of about 15 polar bears eating rotten grain destined for the landfill.

"There's a population of polar bears here that are desperate. They haven't been able to put on enough energy, and we're going to see more of that."

Tourists and Arctic wildlife guides have noticed a decline in the weight of bears. They even found a bear that had died of starvation recently.

As the summer ice in the Arctic melts at a faster rate, and winter ice comes in more slowly, the polar bear population declines. And the more it declines, the more scientists and groups like the WWF worry.

Just last week, the Canadian government classified polar bears as a "species at risk." That's one step away from endangered.

Ewing said scientific models show there's no stopping the inevitable decline of summer ice, so scientists are trying to figure out where the polar bear has the best chance of survival. In the meantime, people need to start reversing the damage they've caused to the Arctic through the consumption of fossil fuels — but they shouldn't be overwhelmed.

"There have been massive changes in our society over the last few hundred years," said Ewing. "There's no reason we can't change again."

Arctic research

► The WWF has been funding polar-bear research in Churchill on and off for the past 30 years, said Dr. Pete Ewing, but the Canadian government has not been maintaining its level of funding in recent years.

► "Arctic research can be difficult, it's expensive," said Ewing. "But for an Arctic nation like Canada ... the World Wildlife Fund has been able to step in and help when (the Canadian government) has not."

Wayward bears do time in jail

- Humans, bears coexist thanks to unique program
- Each year about 35 bears are put in 'jail' then lifted by helicopter to a location 60 kilometres away

@METRONWS.CA

When your town's biggest nuisance can kill you with a casual swipe of a paw tipped with razor-sharp claws, grabbing the nearest shotgun when confronted with one seems a prudent idea.

But that thinking led to the deaths of dozens of polar bears in and around Churchill, Man., a few decades ago.

"Basically, if a bear came into town, it got shot," said Manitoba Conservation's Bob Windsor, who has helped remove about 100 bears from Churchill over the past three years. "That was not acceptable."

The Polar Bear Alert program changed all that, said Windsor.

The program is simple: local residents call the Polar Bear Alert Line to tell conservation officers of an approaching bear. A humane trap is set, and the bear is taken to "Polar Bear Jail." From there, they're later lifted by helicopter to an area away from the town.

The Polar Bear Alert Line

What happens to bears in jail?

Polar bears are incredibly strong. Once they're captured, the bear trap is chained to the cell they'll be held in, so that they won't push the trap right out of the facility.

Once held, they are tranquilized and researchers assess the bears' condition. They are tagged and tattooed so Manitoba Conservation can see whether a bear returns.

Conditions inside the jail are cool and sparse. There is as little human interaction with bears as possible.

Bears are not fed. They can go months without eating, and if they're fed they tend to come back to the facility once released.

After a quarantine period, bears are tranquilized and then carefully wrapped up in a net so their heads and ear tags don't get tangled. The net is attached to a helicopter and the bear is taken to a safe location.

Researchers make sure the bear is alert before leaving the area, as wolves have been known to prey on a groggy bear.

is manned at all times.

Windsor said the program, while simple, has been extremely effective, cutting down on the number of polar bear deaths.

"We haven't had a fatality (from a polar bear) in the town of Churchill since 1983," said Windsor. "When I look at it that way, it makes it all worthwhile."

Coke, WWF team up for Arctic Home

Fifteen years ago, groups like the World Wildlife Fund did not partner with groups like Coca-Cola.

The ultimate American brand, Coca-Cola's perceived cultural pervasiveness and arrogance meant they were the enemy. But not anymore.

Coca-Cola Canada president Nicolaos Koumettis said the company has actively tried to shed its image of taking over the world to one that preserves it over the past decade.

"What happened is that we all learned, and that includes the WWF ... that if you want to achieve something big, you have to work in partnership.

"We've worked with the WWF for many years on water conservation, and now it was time to take it to a new level."

Arctic Home is a major campaign launched by the WWF and Coca-Cola to raise money for polar-bear research in the Arctic. Koumettis said Coca-Cola will donate $2 million over the next four years toward that research.

ELISHA DACEY/METRO

► Arctic Home is a new partnership between the WWF and Coca-Cola designed to generate awareness of the plight of the polar bear.

Gerald Butts, president and CEO of WWF Canada, said working with corporate partners who want to make the world better can affect the most change.

"In general, you can make things happen a lot quicker with companies, especially on big issues," said Butts, adding that Coke is one of the world's biggest users of water, sugar, aluminum and other commodities.

"If they decide they are only going to buy goods that are procured and grown in a certain way, then we can change the supply chain overnight. We could lobby 100 governments for 50 years and never get them to change."

To promote the campaign, Coca-Cola changed its can from the traditional red to white with silver polar bears.

"It wasn't a hard decision," said Koumettis.

Donations can be made at iCoke.ca. Coca-Cola will match donations from North America up to $1 million, in addition to money already pledged.

Polar bears essential to Churchill: Mayor

There are arguably only two industries in Churchill, Man.: Shipping and tourism. And both are under threat.

The economy over the past five years means tourism is down overall, said Mike Spence, Churchill's mayor and owner of Wat'chee Lodge.

"Tourism has been down over the last couple of years due to the economy," said Spence. "It's understandable. People have less money to spend."

Churchill currently has a stable population of about 900 people, which doubles during bear season. However, Churchill's population used to be

Tourist draws

► Tens of thousands of people flood to Churchill every year, mostly to see the polar bears.

► Excursions to see the northern lights in winter, birds in spring and beluga whales in summer also draw tourists to the town.

much bigger.

"I grew up here when it had 6,000 people," said Spence. "Tourism wasn't even on the drawing board."

The population dwindled, however, when the Canadian Armed Forces moved out, so citizens had to start looking for new ways to bring money back into the town.

"Tourism began to be kicked into gear because we had more bears coming through (the town) because the military wasn't keeping them out."

In the late 1980s, tourism exploded. Since then, the polar bear has become synonymous with Churchill.

"When you're tagged with the moniker The Polar Bear Capital of the World, there's a lot of pride in that," said Spence.

● ELISHA DACEY

Ultimate logo

Polar bears have been used as a logo for everything from diamonds to sports teams.

► The polar bear has been the official symbol of Coca-Cola since 1922. It started with an ad campaign in France and grew from there.

► Canadian company Polar Bear Diamonds uses the bear as its official symbol.

► The Hudson Bay Helicopters uses a polar bear in its logo.

Value of summer ice

► Ice is hugely important in the life cycle of polar bears, even in summer ► Here are 6 reasons why:

ELISHA DACEY
@METRONEWS.CA

1. Polar bears' favourite food is ring seals, and ring seals are hunted from the ice. If the ice has disappeared, the bear is forced onto shore, where seals can't be hunted. When the ice freezes over in winter, there is little to eat.
2. With fewer seals to feast on, the female polar bears don't gain enough weight. While there may be other sources of food available, the fatty ring seals provide a higher caloric content.
3. If female polar bears don't put on enough weight, they are less likely to become pregnant or carry cubs to term.

4. Fewer pregnancies means there are fewer polar bears.

5. Polar bears also prefer to avoid each other. Less sea ice in the summer-time means bears will have more frequent encounters with other bears and less space to roam.

6. The loss of summer ice is already having an effect on polar-bear populations. Bears are resorting to eating nutritionally deficient foods such as kelp, and instances of cannibalism are on the rise.

Melting ice taking its toll

The melting of Arctic ice in the summer will be both an economic blessing and a curse, says marine scientist Dr. Peter Ewing.

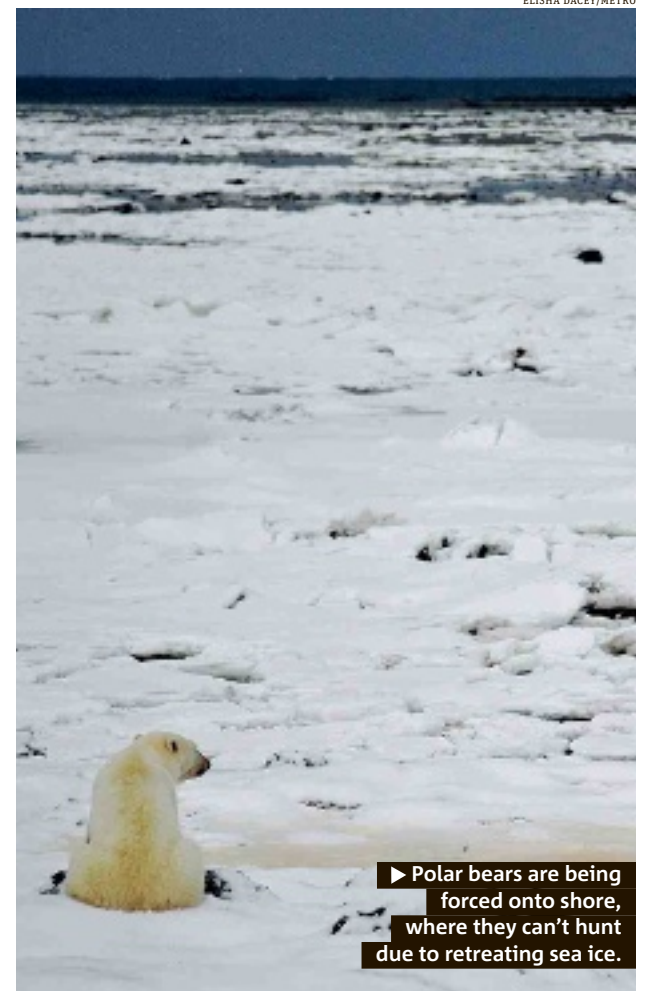

- Warmer summer months mean longer shipping seasons for the port of Churchill, Man. Passages that were previously ice-covered will become much easier to navigate. More shipments means more jobs. It also means the easier shipment of necessary goods to Northern Canada.

- Local Inuit will see a vast cultural change. Peoples who hunt and trap to feed their families will see their traditional culture evolve as bears, seals and other Arctic animals disappear. The government will have to deal with an entire culture that can no longer support itself.

- People do not understand the role the Arctic plays in regulating weather, said Ewing. A melting Arctic means the Earth will heat up even faster, leading to more violent weather and flooding, which will result in more damage to cities and infrastructure, not to mention the loss of life. The total bill for all this chaos is impossible to estimate accurately, but some reports have put it at trillions of dollars.

Mounties in Saskatchewan want to shut down a fake Twitter handle that someone is using in their name.

Sgt. Paul Dawson, media relations officer for Saskatchewan, said it was a surprise on Wednesday when reporters asked if @SaskRCMP is official.

"In this particular case they're using our name and our logo as well and perpetrating themselves to be an official RCMP site, and, in fact, they obviously aren't," Dawson said in an interview Thursday.

But he doesn't believe there will be much confusion about the fake Twitter account. "We've already contacted the folks at Twitter and let them know about this so we're going to go through those channels," Dawson said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

U.S. workers expect to stay on the job longer to retire well: Study

► Survey finds that more than a quarter of young Americans don't expect any income at all from Social Security during their retirement years

Workers are growing to accept the idea that they may be working long after they've become eligible for senior discounts. Yet rather than fixate on their target retirement age, they're increasingly focused on how much money they'll need to retire, according to a new U.S. survey by Wells Fargo & Co.

This shift is coupled with their growing frustration that they're not saving enough, and the reality that many haven't created a detailed retirement plan.

One of the striking results of the survey released Wednesday is that 25 per cent of the respondents said they'll need to work until at least age 80 because they will not have enough money to retire comfortably.

Even those who plan on retiring expect they may continue working in some capacity and for various reasons: About 75 per cent said they expect to work in their retirement years; about 39 per cent said they will need to work to afford things they want or to maintain their lifestyle; and another 35 per cent say they'll work because they want to.

7 In yo' face. Just when we thought they were close to an agreement, the NBA lockout hit an impasse this week. With a shortened season looming, millionaires on both sides could not arrive at an answer to the question "How many millions is too many millions?" The likely answer now is "No millions at all."

8 Sweet Jesus. Canadian comic Russell Peters will perform a nativity sketch in his Christmas special, which airs on CTV and The Comedy Network in December. He has chosen Pamela Anderson to play the Virgin Mary, which is funny because it marks the first time her name and the word "virgin" have ever appeared next to each other in the same sentence.

9 A sad farewell. Canadian comic Stewart Silver passed away suddenly at age 44 this week. A national Yuk Yuk's mainstay for the past two decades, fellow Montrealer, dear friend and all-around good guy will be sorely missed. On behalf of the entire comedic community, I offer our condolences to his family. We thank you for the laughs. R.I.P.

The public judgment of the "angry bus driver" has passed, as well as the internal investigation that for the moment has cost a 25-year OC Transpo employee his livelihood, and whatever else that entails. Just now we are hearing about the mitigating circumstances that might have led to the abusive rant by said bus operator.

As we look back over this situation that brought forth the "righteous indignation" of so many through hyper-alert media sources, it might be time to ponder on our immediate reactions to happenings in our fair city.

It seemed that as days went by we lost sight of the only small voice of reason, that of Matthew Taronno, who I seem to remember asked only for an apology from the driver, then a chance for each of them to move on.

CTV explains it as follows: "The OC Transpo passenger who was the subject of an expletive-filled tirade from an OC Transpo driver says he feels bad that the driver was fired."

I wonder why it seems that small voice of reason has not been heard.

WEIRD NEWS

Flight almost gets flushed

A jammed lock on an airplane bathroom door caused anxious moments for the pilots aboard a flight from North Carolina to New York City.

The captain told air traffic controllers he accidentally got stuck on the LaGuardia Airport-bound Chautauqua Airlines flight from Asheville on Wednesday night.

When a passenger with an unfamiliar accent tried to alert the co-pilot in the cockpit, the co-pilot became alarmed and notified air traffic controllers, according to a recording of the radio exchange from the website LiveATC.net.

"The captain has disappeared in the back and I have someone with a thick foreign accent trying to access the cockpit right now, and I've got to deal with this situation," the co-pilot says.

A controller tells him to consider declaring an emergency.

The captain eventually got himself free from the lavatory. He told controllers there was no threat.

"The captain — myself — went back to the lavatory and the door latched ... and had to fight my way out of it with my body to get the door open," the captain says. "There is no issue, no threat."

▶ Latest technology will make anyone smile when they open these gifts

MIKE YAWNEY
FOR METRO

Nothing gets the heart racing like finding a brand new gadget underneath the Christmas tree! Computers, tablets and all of the accessories that come with them are always hot sellers during the holiday season.

Don't know where to start? Don't worry! Our gadget guide has you covered. Here are a few of our favourite picks:

Apple iMac — starting at $1,199

An all-in-one computer with style! Featuring quad-core Intel processors, HD graphics card, Thunderbolt data transfer technology and HD

FaceTime camera, this computer can handle whatever you throw at it.

As with all Apple computers, all the essential software comes bundled with the computer. Screen sizes range from 21.5 to 27 inches.

Sony VAIO Z Series — $1,999.99

Multi-layered carbon casing protects this rugged, yet thin, Windows 7 laptop from the wear and tear of daily life. Intel Wireless display technology allows you to stream online TV shows, movies and photos right to your TV with full 5.1 surround sound! Add the optional Blu-ray player/burner and you have a mobile home theatre. Plus, it has a built-in HD webcam that can track your face and continuously focus, even if you move.

Dell XPS 14Z — $999.99

A luxury laptop loaded with powerful technology.

This 14-inch laptop features second generation Intel core processors, a roomy 14-inch HD display with edge-to-edge glass and an ultra-thin frame.

MacBook Air — starting at $999

This ultra-portable laptop is sure to turn heads. At only 1.7 centimetres at its thickest point, it's one of the slimmest laptops on the market. It's also incredibly light, weighing only 2.38 pounds. The latest model has a backlit keyboard, which means you can work in any lighting condition, even beside a roaring yuletide fire.

Samsung Galaxy Tab 10.1 — starting at $499

An Android tablet with snappy performance thanks to its 1GHz Dual Core processor. The 10.1-inch screen makes it easy to surf the web (including Flash content), or watch movies. If you are in a creative mood you can record your own HD movie using one of two cameras (2 megapixel and 3 megapixel) built into the device. A battery that lasts up to nine hours makes it ideal for travel. Wi-Fi and 4G models are available.

iPad 2 — starting at $519

Apple's iPad 2 remains the No. 1 tablet on the market. Its stylish form factor and intuitive operating system make it easy for anyone to pick up and use. With more than 500,000 apps available in Apple's app store, there truly is an app for everything. While the cameras may not be quite as good as those found on other tablets, they are ideal for FaceTime chat (free video calling from one Apple device to another). The fact that you can't view Flash content on this device still hasn't deterred people from falling in love with the iPad 2.

HP PhotoSmart eStation — $399

It's an all-in-one printer with a twist! Sure, it can print, scan, copy and fax, but the seven-inch LCD display holds a secret ... you can detach the touchscreen and use it as a basic tablet. Read e-books, send email, log onto Facebook or control your printer wirelessly. You can also download a select number of apps from HP, which will allow you to print everything from recipes to colouring book pages for your kids right from the tablet.

Blue Eyeball 2.0 — $99.99

A revolutionary new webcam from Blue Microphones. Broadcast or record videos in high definition with crystal clear audio. When you want privacy, simply retract the lens! The unique mounting system allows the camera to be set up on a desk or monitor. Works on both Mac and PC, no drivers required.

Microsoft Touch Mouse — $79.99

This optical mouse features a touch sensitive surface to allow for finger gestures on PCs running Windows 7. Users can scroll through webpages, minimize windows and much more. Thanks to BlueTrack Technology this mouse will work on virtually any surface!

From top, Sony VAIO Z Series, $1,999.99, Apple iMac, starting at $1,199, and HP PhotoSmart eStation, $399, right.

She's not alone. In fact, these types of complaints are on the increase.

Canada's Commissioner for Complaints for Telecommunications Services received 8,007 official complaints about cellphones, home phones and internet service in 2010-2011, an increase of 114 per cent over

Says Mobility's CEO Dave Dobbin: "There are no contracts and you won't receive an outrageous bill at the end of the month with surprise charges and extra fees. The price of the plan is the price that you pay, it's that simple."

When Ottawa office manager Eugenia Montes switched her family to Mobilicity, she cut their monthly $200 bill in half. Now, thanks to her plan's unlimited North America long distance and global text features, Montes calls and texts friends and family in New York regularly. "I'd be crazy if I didn't switch."

5 Whether the phone is for you or a friend, look beyond the price of the hardware. Calculate the long-term usage costs, especially since data can be expensive. Look for an unlimited data plan that is truly unlimited and prevents the possibility of a whopper of a bill from watching YouTube, checking email and downloading hot, new apps every month.

Long-distance calling aside, Booth says there are many other ways to inexpensively stay connected to everyone over the holidays using a smartphone.

Send quick holiday greetings, updates and photos via Twitter or BlackBerry Messenger (BBM). If you don't have a data plan or would rather text, go with a carrier like Mobilicity that offers free global texting.

Use your smartphone with a front-facing camera, like the HTC Panache, to film a video holiday card as an alternative to a traditional greeting card. Simply upload to a private link on YouTube and email your loved ones the link. Prefer talking in real-time? Some carriers offer affordable global long distance rates that rival calling card rates.

Internet-based calling apps like Skype will let you talk to your heart's content without the worry of a costly bill.

If budget or circumstance means you won't get home for the holidays this year, don't despair. Celebrating with faraway friends and family is getting easier and more affordable thanks to advances in Canada's mobile phone market, says Anthony Booth, chief customer officer at Mobilicity, an unlimited wireless carrier.

"Canadians are finally starting to enjoy lower wireless rates with unlimited plans that include free long distance across Canada and the U.S.," he explained. "Now, calling relatives located thousands of kilometres

Best gifts come from the heart

Yes, it's the season of giving, but that doesn't mean you have to overspend at Christmas.

Here are some quick tips for ways to enjoy the holidays without feeling the burden of spending. It's a reminder to us all that some of the greatest gifts come from the heart.

Making edible gifts

Making edible gifts is a great way to save money on presents at Christmas. Whether it's shortbread cookies, brownies, jam, homemade granola, cake or syrup, the confectionary options are endless, as are the ways in which to package your culinary creation in a festive, but inexpensive way.

The gift of time

Giving the gift of time is a meaningful way to show just how much you care.

Whether it's giving a relative a handmade gift certificate to be redeemed throughout the year for a special home-cooked dinner, a foot massage, a night out while you watch the kids, or a house clean, this type of gift can, many times, be much more appreciated than buying them an object.

Giving time to the community also gets children to think beyond themselves during the holidays.

This could involve volunteering as a family at a local charity or shelter or dedicating an afternoon to helping out at a food bank or serving a meal at a drop-in centre.

Inexpensive family activities

There are numerous ways to enjoy time with family and friends leading up to and during the holidays without spending a ton.

- Buy a gingerbread house kit at the supermarket ($10 to $15) and devote an evening to making it together.

- Dedicate a weekend afternoon to making Christmas tree ornaments to adorn your tree. Not only is this valuable family time, but it's a creative outlet for all members of the family and, best of all, handmade ornaments are meaningful for holidays to come. Most of the materials can be bought at art supply stores or dollar stores.

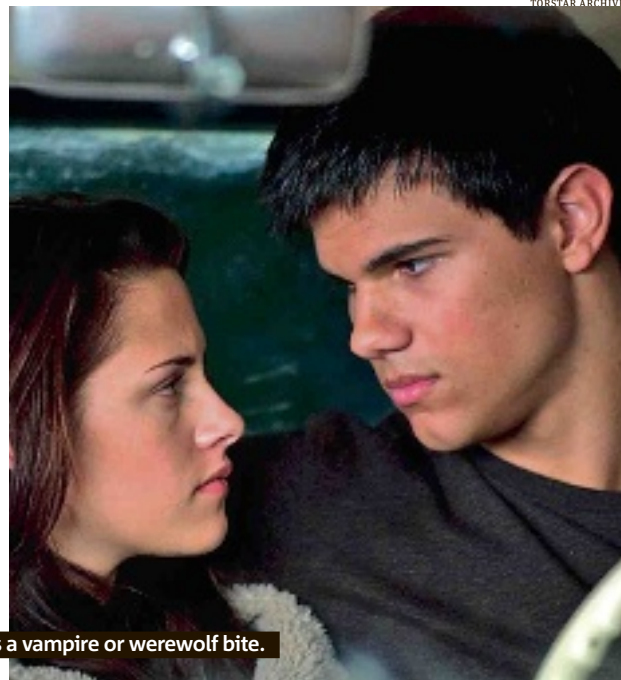

Synopsis

Team Werewolf: Need some convincing to get hairy with Richard? Ginger Snaps and Dog Soldiers expand on the werewolf story. The Howling and An American Werewolf in London both contain Reagan-era thrills. And, of course, no lycanthropic list would be complete without The Wolf Man.

Team Vampire: Looking for a good vampire flick to sink your teeth into? Coppola's Bram Stoker's Dracula has thrills and atmosphere. But a more unusual choice would have to be Shadow of the Vampire, one creepy flick. For over-the-top wild fun, nothing beats Nic Cage as a reluctant vampire in Vampire's Kiss.

► In the Twilight series, Bella has a hard time deciding if she wants a vampire or werewolf bite.

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN

A 'biting' battle

► Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin pick supernatural sides in an age-old battle

Richard: Mark, on the occasion of the release of Breaking Dawn, the next-to-last in the Twilight saga, it's time we finally debated the burning question on the lips of every Twihard — who would win in a fair fight between a vampire and werewolf? I'm on Team Werewolf for this one. Big fangs coupled with hot-blooded animal instincts trumps the oversized molars of the nocturnal undead any day (or night for that matter).

Mark: Fighting each other, Richard, you might have a point. But in a fight against humans, I have to say I'm a vampire man. You can spot a werewolf a mile away, enough time to run for cover. But vampires can be undetectable, until it's too late. They can seem perfectly normal until they open their mouths, kind of like members of the Tea Party. It really comes down to the relative dangers of brute force versus seduction, doesn't it?

RC: Perhaps so. Bella, the vampire groupie of Twilight, certainly finds the blood-suckers irresistible, but I'd suggest Jack Nicholson, as the hirsute gentleman in Wolf, is much more of a charmer than the vampires of Near Dark. They don't seduce as much as manipulate, taunt and slaughter their victims in the nastiest of ways.

MB: The vampires in Near Dark should be thrown out of the Vampire Union! But if you're using Jack Nicholson as an example of the urbane, more mature werewolf, let me submit Frank Langella in Dracula and George Hamilton in Love at First Bite as vampiric counterparts. The sadder but wiser vampire for me! But really, Richard, who would you rather meet in a dark alley? Kate Beckinsale or Benicio Del Toro? Case ... closed ... I think.

RC: Hmmm... I'll take Kate, but remember Underworld? She played a beautiful vampire but who was she in love with? A werewolf. I rest my case. In the battleground of love chalk one up for the werewolves. To answer our original question I checked with the authority — the internet — and found this: "In a fair fight (no weapons) a werewolf will destroy a vampire in a few seconds (unless the vampire is smart and tries to run away)." I rest my case.

MB: Ahh, but the vampire is nothing if not smart — way smarter than the werewolf — smart enough not to engage in a fight that he cannot win. But I'll concede to you on this one. I'll be in the corner ... sulking ... with Kate Beckinsale to give me solace.

Lars Von Trier's Melancholia is yet another of the director's long list of movies about troubled women, except this time, graphic violence is traded for an aching sadness and visual splendour.

Kristen Dunst does her finest work as a girl whose clinical depression causes self destruction while the titular rogue planet threatens to cause the same annihilation to Earth.

Full of metaphor, rich performances and dark humour, this is LvT at his most refined.

Happy Feet Two*Genre: AnimationDirector: George MillerStars: Elijah Wood, Robin Williams, Pink

The original Happy Feet and its sequel don't look or feel like other movies for kids. Director George "Mad Max" Miller is a maximalist director who opens up the usual kid flick palette with swooping cameras, wide-open vistas and beautifully effective 3D. Featuring a cast of thousands — animated penguins as far as the eye can see and "krillions" of krill—Happy Feet Two is made on a scale that would make Cecil B. DeMille proud.

It's also a step above most kid's movies. Joyful and beautiful to look at, it has more to say about life, love and the pursuit of happiness than most movies aimed at adults.

The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn - Part 1Genre: DramaDirector: Bill CondonStars: Kristen Stewart, Robert Pattinson, Taylor Lautner

Lurching toward the conclusion of the Twilight series, the first half of Breaking Dawn hits screens with a resounding thud, committing a sin the previous films had at least managed to avoid, despite their faults: The new film is incredibly boring. The events of the film's first hour — planning the wedding, going through with the wedding, going on a honeymoon and Bella getting knocked up — could've taken 15 minutes in the hands of filmmakers less concerned with overindulging the series, diehard fans. But then, maybe they were right to do it this way, as there's clearly no other possible audience for this than Twihards who have already drunk the Kool-Aid.

Like CrazyGenre: DramaDirector: Drake DoremusStars: Anton Yelchin, Felicity Jones

🌐🌐🌐½

The immigration department gets in the way of an affair between an L.A. furniture maker and a British student due to head home when her visa expires.

She doesn't, and opens up a world of hurt for them.

While their enforced separation is bittersweet, and filled with longing, reality socks them into anxious reality. They begin the legal process and a new enemy arises — time.

Can love stand the test? Heart-wrenching, often improvised performances make these spoiled kids relatable, and we viscerally feel their pain. Like Crazy is emotionally strenuous and rewarding.

Meeting Kermit

When The Muppets iconic star Kermit The Frog came to Toronto a few weeks ago for a media press conference hosted by Metro's own Richard Crouse, this scribe brought his four-year-old son Jack out to meet him. Sitting attentively in the front row amidst a sea of print, radio and TV elite, Jack — who had just come from a press screening of the film — listened and watched wide eyed as Kermit fielded reporters' questions and engaged in all manner of witty banter. When Crouse called an end to the event, Jack moved closer, offering Kermit a picture he drew and hoping to shake the Frog's fuzzy hand. Kermit obliged, of course, carefully saddling up beside the understandably starstruck lad, posing for a photo and a hug. It was the kind of moment a child — and a film loving parent — only dream of experiencing and if the look on Jack's face and the excited stories he now relates daily about that moment are any indication, the over four-decades-old Muppets franchise still has massive magic.

Segel gets his puppet on

► Muppet master Jason Segel helps Kermit and friends put on a show to remind the world about the Muppets

CHRIS ALEXANDER
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

The man who had his own masturbation station in the laugh out loud romance I Love You, Man, may seem like the least likely candidate to revive a legendary children's entertainment franchise, but that's exactly what charming multi-hyphenate actor/writer Jason Segel did with his latest picture, The Muppets.

Segel (who also wrote and starred in Forgetting Sarah Marshall, as well as serving as one of the leads on the smash hit sitcom How I Met Your Mother) penned the screenplay and stars as Gary, happy go lucky brother to melancholy muppet Walter, a felt-skinned kid who is obsessed with the late, lamented variety series The Muppet Show. When the siblings — along with Gary's fiancée Mary (Amy Adams) venture to Hollywood to find Kermit, Miss Piggy, Fozzie et al, they pal around with a legion of Henson heroes, run afoul of an evil oil baron and spearhead a comeback show. It's all rather marvelous, heartfelt fun.

"When I started this project," said Segel in Toronto recently to promote the film, "I made it mandatory that we had to acknowledge that the Muppets aren't as famous anymore. And I'll be honest, there was some controversy, there was some ego involved there, but it was important. But it became the core of the film, that the Muppets have to put on a show to remind the world about them."

Over 270 Muppets make it onto the screen, including such obscure characters as the diabolical Uncle Deadly and the massive Sweetums. In fact the only Muppet created for the film is Walter, our entry point into the film. Originally, however, Walter was designed to be a very different character.

"In my early drafts Walter was a puppet, my ventriloquist dummy and the secret is that he's actually alive," admits Segel.

"But when the puppeteers got involved in the process, they said you never acknowledge that these character are puppets, ever. So instead, we made him my brother...and we never acknowledge it!"

The Muppets is ideal family fare, with enough antics and tunes to please the kids and plenty of humour to please the parents. In other words, it's a classic Muppets outing in every sense.

"It was all about balancing levels of nostalgia ... and about making sure people just have a great time at the movies," says Segel.

Why wouldn't a 78-year-old take up a rap career?

🔴 Aiello releases a rap CD 🔴 Says his grandchildren love his singing 🔴 If you don't know, now you know

How does Oscar-nominated actor Danny Aiello communicate with his nine grandchildren? Through rap music.

The 78-year-old said his grandchildren love his singing but couldn't remember his songs until he added rap.

"They went crazy over it (and) now they know all the words to the entire songs," he said.

Aiello, nominated for a best supporting actor Oscar for Spike Lee's 1989 film, Do the Right Thing, recently released his new album, Bridges. It's a collaborative effort with rapper-songwriter Damon Hasan, who has produced music for Mariah Carey, Mary J. Blige, Destiny's Child and Jennifer Lopez. It seems like your grandchildren were a big part in the making of this album.

I utilize my grandchildren as my barometer for my success ... so my feeling was that it would be wonderful for me to do classic standards and put rap to it because the children of today are loving rap; I'm talking all colours, all religions, all nationalities love rap.

► Danny Aiello has 99 problems but his grandchildren aren't one of them.

Do you have a new respect for rap?

I'm not into gangster rap, you know. I'm not into that. I'd have to say the beat, if I didn't accept the beat I would be a complete idiot because the beat is exciting. But the words itself are somewhat, for the most part, offensive to me.

What do you get creatively in music that you don't get in acting?

I've sung in movies ... singing in movies is quite easy because you're doing it as a character. ... But when you're on the stage singing as Danny Aiello, you are Danny Aiello ... so it's a little more frightening.

► LMFAO reveals that a hit song was born out of scuffle with Mitt Romney

They're famous lyric is "everyday we're shuffling," but maybe they should alter it to "everyday we're scuffling."

In an interview with The Washington Post, RedFoo said the song We Came Here to Party was inspired by his bandmate Sky Blu's argument with Mitt Romney. The incident happened in February 2010 when Sky Blue reclined his chair too far back into Romney's space while on a Jet Blue flight.

"Mitt Romney's fan were attacking the LMFAO fans and the LMFAO fans were going back and forth"

REDFOO

The lyrics of the song include:

"We came here to party (ROCK!)/We didn't come here to fight/ We both get a lot of attention in the press / You sellin' books and wanna be the president / We sellin' hooks and the flow is heaven sent/ We both hustlin' so why we tustlin'."

RedFoo told the Washington Post that after the incident made national news, "both parties were fighting. Mitt Romney's fan were attacking the LMFAO fans and the LMFAO fans were going back and forth."

Raising Martha

► From Family Ties to Raising Hope — Martha Plimpton decides to step into granny panties as a series regular

METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Though she's popped up on a number of TV shows as a guest star — starting with Family Ties when she was 15 — film and theatre star Martha Plimpton had never taken a job as a series regular until Raising Hope debuted last year.

With raves from critics and fans alike and an Emmy nomination under her belt, it's a decision Plimpton clearly isn't regretting.

She took a break from shooting the show's second season to chat with Metro.

You're obviously very young to be a grandmother.

I don't think it's that unusual, actually — in this country anyway — to be a 40-year-old grandmother. It happens all the time.

So in that regard, I don't feel that we are doing anything that revolutionary or weird. But, yeah. I guess you're right. It depends on the family, you know. We've all gotten past the me as a grandma thing. That's, like, so 2010. We've moved on.

How has the show changed in its second season?

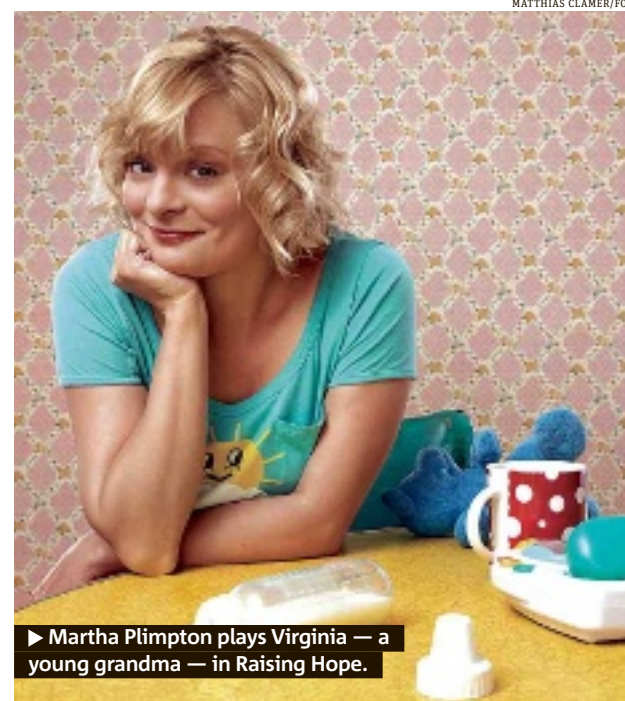

Well, in Season One, we were establishing relationships with the family and who we all are and what this family's about, and in Season 2, we're also seeing a little bit more of their town and the people that populate this town and the world of the Chances and their friends and their co-workers.

What else? We established a little bit more of the history with Virginia and her evil cousin, Delilah, played by Amy Sedaris, who is absolutely fantastic. And so we see a little bit more of Virginia's insecure, vulnerable side with that dynamic, which was nice.

It's fun to play that stuff. Hope is bigger, of course. She's a toddler now. The girls who play Hope, Baylie and Rylie, are now almost 2, and so we're growing with them. We're adjusting our storylines and accommodating their, you know, newfound capabilities as human beings.

Did you have any reservations about taking on a TV role, like the worry of getting bored with it after a while?

I can't say that I was anticipating being bored, but I think that's the fear that most actors have when they sign a long contract, because you're used to going from job to job, right? What may happen to some people in these situations is they might start to get neurotic and micromanage, you know what I mean? I feel like the less I try to manage which way things go and the more I just sort of enjoy the process and enjoy what the writers are doing — which is so good — the more fun I have as we go along. It's getting more and more fun for me.

Why Simpsons doesn't get old

► Show's 500th episode to air in February ► Metro chats with the man who made it all happen — Matt Groening

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN HOLLYWOOD

Despite a contract squabble earlier this year that might have brought an end to the Simpsons, Matt Groening's animated comedy is still kicking — and will be indefinitely, he says.

But how does a comedy stay fresh after 23 seasons?

And what would an end look like? Series creator Groening says he doesn't plan to be around to find out.

Do you already know how the show is going to end? Do you have the last episode in your mind?

I think everybody who works on the show has a secret final episode in mind. I had my idea, but my idea already got used up 10 years ago.

However, we inadvertently, accidentally might have already animated one we thought might be the final episode, and that is our Christmas episode coming up, which shows the Simpsons in the future. Surprisingly enough, things don't work out well for Bart.

But it's a very sweet and touching episode as well, and there's a great scene of adult Bart and adult Lisa together talking about their family, in the tree house.

They had come home for the holidays. They're up in Bart's tree house, and they're drunk, which you've never been able to do.

What's the secret to keeping a show going for more than 20 years?

I think the Simpsons is basically a forum for different kinds of comedy. It's not any one kind of comedy. It started out I think, in a more limited way, but now we do everything.

We tried different kinds of jokes and different styles, and we parody different kinds of animation styles, and our range of references go from truly obscure literary references to the most dumb, broad comedy that you can imagine.

We aren't thinking about the audience so much as about surprising ourselves. As long as we surprise ourselves, we will continue to surprise the audience.

Kristin Cavallari takes on the Kardashians

► Reality star Cavallari accuses famous family of spreading false rumours

DOROTHY ROBINSON
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Oh, snap! I've never been a super fan of Kristin Cavallari as, really, I'm not too sure what there is to be impressed by.

But I might have a change of heart as she totally called out the Kardashians on The Billy Bush Show on Wednesday.

Here's the backstory: Life & Style is running a story that Scott Disick, the boyfriend and baby daddy of Kourtney Kardashian, fooled around with Cavallari before hooking up with Kourtney.

Kristin says this is "100 per cent not true" and accused the Kardashians of making news where there is none.

(The Kardashians flaming gossip rumours? Never!)

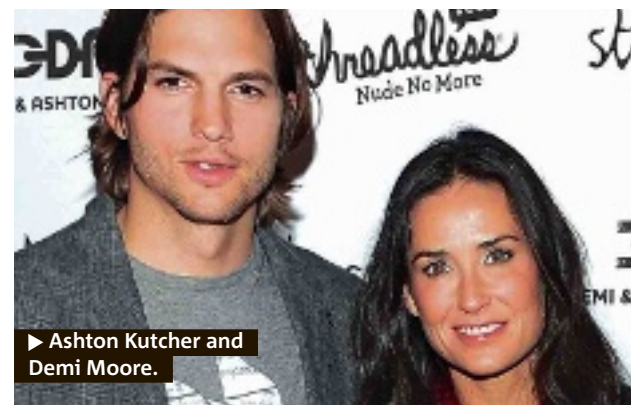

"What convenient timing for them. With their show premiering next week and with everything that's going on for Kim, I feel like they're trying to take the heat off her," she told Bush.

"When there's a big story like that, they always call you and ask if you want to comment and clearly none of them denied it, so it's very — it's really disrespectful to me. ... I'm in a committed relationship. It's disrespectful to me and Jay (Cutler) and I think it just says a lot about their character."

Um, everything that has happened in the past year with the Kardashians says a lot about their character, don't you think?

Demi Moore and Ashton are done

► Ashton Kutcher and Demi Moore.

Demi Moore is ending her marriage to Ashton Kutcher.

The 49-year-old actress announced her divorce plans to The Associated Press Thursday, saying she's doing it with "great sadness and a heavy heart."

She said that "as a woman, a mother and a wife, there are certain values and vows that I hold sacred, and it is in this spirit that I have chosen to move forward with my life."

Moore adds that it's a trying time for her and her family, so she asked for people to respect her privacy.

Moore and Kutcher were wed in September 2005. The couple's relationship became tabloid fodder in recent months as rumours swirled about Kutcher's alleged infidelity.

Mo' Yeater problems for Bieber

Justin Bieber's problems might not be going away as fast as he'd hoped, as reports have surfaced that Mariah Yeater is not actually dropping her paternity suit, having found new lawyers to represent her. But first she needs to do some clean-up work. TMZ has published text messages Yeater reportedly sent to a friend suggesting her baby's father is someone other than Bieber. "pleeeeee ERASE ALL MESSAGES from my mom where she says Tristyn is Robbies Son," one message reads, while a second seems far more incriminating: "Ill kick u when we get paid im trusting you pleeeeee." Her "friends" were fiscally savvy; they realized TMZ would pay for text messages before Yeater could. ● METRO

The appeal of quick breads isn't merely the ease, though you have to love any baked good that is no more complicated than mixing a bunch of things together, then baking.

But it also is the adaptability and flexibility of these recipes that have earned them such a coveted place in the home kitchen. They can be flavoured with nearly any combination of ingredients, from sweet all the way to savoury and spicy.

They also can be baked in numerous styles — loaves large or small, as muffins, even simply as muffin tops (if you have the right pan).

To help get you baking this fall, here are two basic quick bread base recipes; one savoury and one sweet. Each recipe includes suggested flavourings — easy ways to take a basic bread and turn it into so much more.

Savoury Quick Bread
Preparation:

- 1 Heat oven to 180 C (350 F). Coat a loaf or muffin pan with cooking spray.

► This recipe makes 1 loaf or 12 muffins.

- 2 In a large bowl, whisk together flour, cornmeal, baking powder, salt and sugar. In another bowl, mix together sour cream, butter, eggs, mashed potato and the mix-ins of your choice. Add potato-sour cream mixture to flour mixture and mix just until combined.

- 3 For loaf, spread batter into prepared pan. Cook until a wooden skewer inserted at the centre comes out clean, 60 minutes. For muffins, spoon batter into prepared tins and bake 20 minutes. Let cool for 10 minutes in pan, then turn out onto a cooling rack. Let loaf cool fully before cutting. EMILY RICHARDS IS A PROFESSIONAL

Ingredients:

- 500 ml (2 cups) all-purpose flour
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) cornmeal
- 12 ml (2 1/2 tsp) baking powder
- 5 ml (1 tsp) salt
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) sugar
- 250 ml (1 cup) sour cream
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) melted butter
- 2 eggs
- 250 ml (1 cup) cooked, mashed potato (unseasoned)

Whoever thought up raking leaves needs a good talking to.

Not that I couldn't use the exercise, it's just that the whole exertion thing really detracts from the enjoyment of my favourite time of year.

I love fall, and even though mid-November can be a bit dreary, this calm before the pre-Christmas storm is a perfect opportunity to light that first fire of the season and get comfy with a glass or two of red wine.

When the weather outside starts to chill, reds — especially those with a good balance of tannin and bright berry fruit — make for fine imbibing with or without food. Find one with an accent of residual sugar and you've got a cocktail tippie that easily overshadows the appeal of a pint of ale or fancy mixed drink.

One of the latest new wave wines that isn't afraid to throw around a bit of sweetness is Apothic Red 2009 Wine-maker's Blend ($14.99 - $17.48). Made by E & J Gallo, it's a swirling mix of syrah, zinfandel and merlot that's smooth and juicy with a finale of big berry fruit.

Woods makes birdie; U.S. takes early lead at Presidents Cup

Tiger Woods ended his birdie drought at the wind-swept Presidents Cup on Friday in Melbourne, Australia, with a curling downhill putt that could have gone off the green if it hadn't hit the centre of the hole. Woods, trying to make up for a 7-and-6 foursomes loss with Steve Stricker on Thursday in which they failed to make a birdie, saw an easier effort on the first hole of his fourballs match Friday lip out, enabling Jason Day and Aaron Baddeley to halve the hole. The Americans took a 4-2 points lead into Friday after winning three foursomes matches and halving two Thursday.

Sticking to ground game

► Establishing run against Blue Bombers crucial for Tiger-Cats' hopes in East final Marcel Bellefeuille isn't about to mess with success.

An improved ground attack was instrumental in Hamilton's stunning 52-44 overtime East Division semifinal win last weekend over the Montreal Alouettes. The Tiger-Cats' head coach says establishing the run will be crucial for his club in the conference final Sunday against the Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

"It (running the football) is something we felt

"If we can knuckle down and ball up and run the football, I think it will make them change their whole gameplan."

HAMILTON RUNNING BACK AVON COBOURNE

we needed to do in the playoffs to have success, especially against the teams we're playing," Bellefeuille said Thursday. "Going into Winnipeg, being outdoors and considering how stout a defence they are we're going to have to mount some kind of ground game, especially when you're going against the wind."

Windy conditions are always a factor in Winnipeg, but especially so in late fall when they combine with cold temperatures to make Canad Inns Stadium very inhospitable. The Ticats got a small dose of that Thursday as they practised in cold, breezy weather with pipied-in crowd noise at Ivor Wynne Stadium to simulate conditions they'll face Sunday before a sellout crowd in the Manitoba capital.

"These were excellent conditions in terms of being able to practise with and against the wind with offence, defence and special teams and having noise," Bellefeuille said. "The conditions we'll face Sunday might be a little colder, but it was very similar."

Bitter cold and wind can wreak havoc on a offence's ability to pass. So establishing the ground game becomes very significant.

Hamilton certainly proved that against Montreal. After finishing the regular season averaging a league-low 90 yards rushing per game, Hamilton had 161 yards on 23 carries (seven-yard average) against a Montreal defence that allowed a CFL-best 92.4 yards on the ground.

CFL EXTRA POINTS

DAN TOTH
OTTAWA@METRONEWS.CA

The Hamilton Tiger-Cats can't possibly pull off another upset like the one we witnessed last Sunday in Montreal, can they?

Hamilton was the most schizophrenic team in the CFL this season, surprising even themselves by knocking off the two-time defending Grey Cup champs in the East semifinal.

The trick now is to repeat the performance Sunday in a defensive battle in Winnipeg. The Ticats defence will need to get to Bombers quarterback Buck Pierce, find a way to stop Winnipeg's running game, and create some turnovers.

Is that asking too much?

The vaunted Bombers defence, which coined the term "Swaggerville" and incensed opponents across Canada this season, will have its hands full stopping Tiger-Cats back Avon Cobourne but has a track record to back up their boasts. The Bomber defence allowed the fewest first downs, fewest offensive yards, tied for the lead with the most pass interceptions and posted the most quarterback sacks.

Winnipeg's three wins over Hamilton this season makes them a significant favourite in the East final, although the Tabbies proved in Montreal they can't be taken lightly.

Our pick: Winnipeg by 3
Eskimos vs. Lions: Jerome Messam's absence from Sunday's West final might say more about his contribution to the Edmonton Eskimos this season than if the exciting running back could play in this playoff showdown. Messam tore the meniscus in his left knee in last weekend's win over Calgary and is out for the season, possibly killing the Eskies' chances of upsetting the heavily favoured B.C. Lions. Messam quieted his many critics this season by becoming the first Canadian in more than a decade to rush for 1,000 yards and his loss is an obvious blow to the Eskimos' chances.

Backups Calvin McCarty and Hugh Charles don't have Messam's running ability. Messam kept defences honest, buying time for Eskimos QB Ricky Ray to get the passing game in gear, which is still the key to Edmonton's offence.

Our pick: B.C. by 6
Jyles not top of list in Argos' QB plans: Jim Barker is wearing his best poker face, but he's not fooling anyone.

Barker is telling everyone who'll listen that he intends to re-sign marginally talented backup quarterback Steven Jyles as the Toronto Argos starter next season.

The reality is Barker's Argos are desperate for a proven winner on offence who can also sell tickets and Calgary QB Henry Burris is a perfect fit in both categories.

At the same time, it's hard to believe the Stampede will punt the CFL's 2010 Most Outstanding Player, but it comes down to a numbers game — the zeroes on Burris's paycheque.

At a reported $350,000-$400,000 per season, Burris is easily the highest player on the Stamps and his departure will clear up at least $200,000 of cap space for 2012. With only one team in dire need of a QB, Calgary is handcuffed in a possible trade and Barker's Bluff doesn't improve their chances of getting fair market value.

Astros' sale sparks 'historical' day for MLB

► More wild cards, 15-team leagues and season-long interleague play ahead ► 'This will be very good,' Selig

Baseball will be making major changes in the next two years — adding two teams to the playoffs, moving the Houston Astros to the American League and extending interleague play to September.

The expanded playoffs could come as early as next year. That will put 10 teams in the post-season, requiring a new wild-card playoff round that probably will be one game, winner take all.

The altered playoff structure is subject to an agreement on a new labour contract with the players' association, which is expected before the current deal expires Dec. 11.

"We believe after a lot of study and a lot of thought that the addition of two wild cards will really help us in the long run," said commissioner Bud Selig, who called it a "historical" morning.

Baseball began its playoff system in 1969 and doubled the playoff teams to eight in 1994.

As a condition for approving the reported $615 million US sale of the Astros from Drayton McLane to Jim Crane, the Astros agreed to shift from the NL Central to the AL West as soon as 2013, giving each league 15 teams. It's baseball's first realignment since Milwaukee went to the NL in 1998.

With an odd number of teams in each league, there will be interleague play from April through September. Since interleague games began in 1997, they had been concentrated around May and late-June.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New model

The changes will put one-third of the baseball's 30 teams in the post-season.

► In the NFL, 12 of 32 teams make the playoffs. In the NBA and NHL, 16 of 30 teams advance.

FIFA boss under fire for racism response

With FIFA still reeling from corruption allegations, Sepp Blatter faced a sharp backlash and calls for his resignation Thursday following his comments downplaying the problem of racism in soccer.

The FIFA president provoked outrage by suggesting in television interviews Wednesday that on-field racial abuse could be settled by a handshake and quickly forgotten.

Britain's sports minister called Thursday for Blatter to go "for the sake of the game," the European Union described his remedy for racism as "completely unacceptable" and the global players' union said his comment was "a remarkable mistake."

Former England and Manchester United striker Andrew Cole wrote in a newspaper column that Blatter was "clueless" and an "out-of-touch buffoon."

Blatter's latest gaffe follows previous verbal missteps such as suggesting that women players should wear tighter shorts, and gay fans should refrain from having sex at the 2022 World Cup in Qatar where homosexual acts are illegal.

Blatter managed to further discredit FIFA just weeks after he won some praise for promising to confront allegations of financial wrongdoing by senior colleagues as part of wide-ranging reforms following damaging allegations of bribery, vote-rigging and ticket scams.

The latest gaffe by the 75-year-old Swiss official sparked a furor in England, where authorities are investigating two allegations of racial abuse involving Liverpool and Chelsea players in Premier League games.

"This is the latest episode that calls into question whether this man should be the head of world football," British Sports Minister Hugh Robertson said. "For the sake of the game, he should go."
